Shelby County Trustee announces Over $500,000 in Debt Reduction By Clients of Greater Memphis Financial Empowerment Center

Regina Morrison Newman, Shelby County Trustee, announces milestones met by the Greater Memphis Financial Empowerment Center; GMFEC counseling is now officially a Shelby County benefit

09/22/20 – Regina Morrison Newman, Shelby County Trustee, in partnership with non-profit service provider the RISE Foundation, announced today two critical milestones met by the Greater Memphis Financial Empowerment Center (GMFEC). The GMFEC opened its doors a little over one year ago.

The GMFEC provides free, professional one-on-one financial counseling as a service to any County resident. It has now served over 500 clients and those clients have jointly reduced their non-mortgage debt by over $500,000 as of the end of August. On average, clients receive at least 2 hours of free financial counseling each but are entitled to receive counseling as long as they need it. These milestones are especially meaningful as the GMFEC counselors have been operating fully remotely for the last 6 months due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Also, in a partnership with Shelby County Mayor Lee Harris, the GMFEC is now an official benefit for County employees, their families and retirees. While counseling is offered to all Shelby County residents free of charge, the GMFEC will dedicate a counselor to County employees as demand increases. When in person counseling is available again, a co-location in a Shelby County building will be established.

“The Trustee’s Office is thrilled with the success clients have been able to achieve through counseling with the GMFEC! To see that debt reduction in the face of the pandemic speaks to their hard work to improve their financial footing. Now to have the GMFEC as an official County benefit raises the awareness of the availability of this tremendous asset. We’ve already seen an uptick in calls from County employees.” - Regina Morrison Newman, Shelby County Trustee

“COVID-19 has underscored the critical importance of professional one-on-one financial counseling to help residents – including County employees – manage the financial impact of the pandemic,” said Jonathan Mintz, President and CEO of the Cities for Financial Empowerment Fund. “We are thrilled to partner with Shelby County and Trustee Newman on the GMFEC, and applaud the work they’ve done over the past year and during the pandemic to build residents’ financial stability.”
